VERY Alabama cotton farmer knows that soil wears out . . . and that unless he keeps on putting back into the ground again health building plant foods it will cease to grow crops. Exactly the same thing is true of Alabama business. Unless Alabama citizens enrich the Alabama market by putting back into it money they have made, the Alabama market will wear out and cease

Almost all of every dollar that you spend for Alabama coal or coke goes back into the Alabama market, enriching it again so that it can keep on growing profits for the Alabama merchant, farmer, manufacturer, lawyer, doctor and business man. Almost all of every dollar that you spend for Natural Gas leaves the state, taking money from the pockets of Alabama people who buy from you—impoverishing instead of enriching Alabama soil. The Natural Gas line from Louisiana which runs thru Alabama, has an annual capacity of about thirty-six billion five hundred million cubic feet of gas. This is the equivalent of about one million three hundred and fifty thousand tons of average Alabama coal or coke per Production of this supply of Louisiana gas requires absolutely no Alabama labor, and creates no payrolls for the state. Production of its equivalent of Alabama coal or coke would furnish a years work to about one thousand Alabama miners. The transportation of this supply of Louisiana gas requires practically no Alabama labor after pipe lines are once laid.

The transportation of its equivalent of Alabama coal or coke requires over 27,000 freight cars, gives employment to many Alabama railroad employees and produces gross revenues for Alabama railroads of about one million seven hundred thousand

This is the seventh of a series of advertisements, pub-lished by Alabama coal and coke companies about Alabama coal and coke.

"J. C. Dickerman, engineer-examiner of the Federal Trade Commission, who has been looking into the affairs of the Alabama Power Company, makes a report to the Commission, which has been summarized as follows, according to Russell Kent, The Advertiser's Washing-

1. The company's steam plants are of high class, strategically located, and protect their immediate areas from serious interruptions of service usually supplied from hydro system.

2. Operations are well organized with efficient staff. Use is made of modern methods for recording and directing operations. 3. Book fixed capital of several of the plants built by the company now show low or moderate unit costs. 4. Average revenues from all sales have ranged between one and 1.21 cents per kilowatt hour sold in the past four years.

5. Rates have been closely supervised by Public Service Com-6. Rates set at a moderate initial figure, 5½ cents per kilowatt hour being the top step and falling in domestic schedules to  $1\frac{1}{2}$  cents. Power schedules scale down to  $\frac{1}{2}$  cent. 7. Ownership of property and direct conduct of operations are limited strictly to Alabama.

8. The company is large and well organized and equipped.

This is doubtless unpleasant information for the people's evangels in journalism and politics in Alabama. But it is not unpleasant to those callous individuals who are merely interested in advancing the industrial welfare of the State, in seeing its key industries conducted along sound and correct lines, and in seeing judicious compliments paid by disinterested non-political critics."
